Attachment to the Design Proposal: Quotation

Project: Front porch and backyard design

Phase 1: Project Survey

Scope of work:

- understanding the client's requirements and design sensibilities.
- taking measurements of the existing site.
- discussion of exterior materials, finishes, colour schemes and landscaping elements.

Phase 2: Conceptual Design

Scope of work:

- Front porch: confirmation of geometry, sizes, and desirable locations of key design elements such as the front porch deck and stairs, and stairs to the existing basement.
- Backyard Design: confirmation of geometry, sizes, and desirable locations of key design elements such as the backyard deck and stairs, back door and sidelites, and surrounding landscaping.
- creation of black and white conceptual design drawings that includes site plans, floor plans, elevations and 3D views.
- submission of the conceptual designs (.pdf format, black and white) to the client via email.

At this phase the Client may request 4 changes to the proposed design elements: 2 for front porch and 2 for backyard. The changes may affect geometry and/or location of key elements.

Phase 3: 3D Rendering (Backyard Only)

Scope of work:

- Creation of photorealistic 3D model of the backyard design confirmed at the Conceptual Design Phase. The final design will include all confirmed design elements, materials, and landscaping.
- Submission of 5 photorealistic images in .jpg format to the client for revision via email.

At the phase the client may request 5 minor changes such as colour and/or material changes. The minor changes do not include geometric alterations of the design elements. All shapes are assumed to be confirmed at the Conceptual Design Phase.

NOTE: The client may interrupt the service at any phase of the design process with condition that all work that has been performed is paid prior to the service termination.
